2026 Young Civil Engineer of the Year

ASCE Oklahoma Awards

The ASCE Oklahoma Young Civil Engineer of the Year Award recognizes a civil engineer in the early stages of their career who has demonstrated exceptional leadership, professional achievement, and service to the civil engineering profession. This award honors an individual who shows a strong commitment to advancing the practice of civil engineering, supporting the mission and values of ASCE, and making a meaningful impact on projects and communities within Oklahoma.

Nominees are evaluated based on their professional accomplishments, leadership within ASCE and the engineering community, contributions to the profession, and commitment to mentorship, outreach, and service early in their career.

Please share a narrative responding to the following question about the nominee:

Summarize why the nominee deserves to be named ASCE Oklahoma Young Civil Engineer of the Year. Describe how the nominee has demonstrated excellence in the practice of civil engineering, leadership within ASCE or related professional organizations, and meaningful contributions to the profession early in their career. Highlight the nominee's impact on projects, leadership potential, mentorship, community involvement, and advancement of the civil engineering profession in Oklahoma. (Maximum 500 words)
